ANNA OLSON

Culinary Master | Host, Bake with Anna Olson

Anna Olson is Canada's baking sweetheart and an accomplished savoury chef. Her positive and common-sense approach in the kitchen has made her one of the country's most popular and recognizable television chefs. As the host of Food Network's Bake with Anna Olson, Fresh with Anna Olson, and Sugar, Anna has earned a loyal following in over 190 countries. She continues to expand her audience as a regular guest on The Marilyn Denis Show, and through her YouTube channel, Oh Yum with Anna Olson, which has over 1.39 million subscribers.

In addition to hosting her own television shows, Anna has been the co-host and judge on Great Chocolate Showdown and Junior Chef Showdown. In 2018, she joined Iron Chef Canada's special holiday baking episode as their Iron Chef, where she was victorious against her competitor.

Using food as her creative medium, recipe development is one of Anna's greatest accomplishments. She is the author of 11 bestselling cookbooks, including her latest, Set for the Holidays and Baking Day with Anna Olson, which won the Gold Medal at the Taste Canada Cookbook Awards. Her recipes have also been published in several magazines and many of her cookbooks have been translated into Spanish. In addition, Anna has her own line of kitchen products, called Anna Olson Kitchen.

Anna is an avid promoter of the local food movement. She works under the motto "what grows together, goes together" and infuses her cooking with great local ingredients. Both the Ontario Hospitality Institute and the Canadian Food & Wine Institute have recognized Anna for her ongoing contributions to the development of Canadian food culture.

Here's a BRAND NEW h...

1 cup (225 g) unsalted butter, room temperature
 1/2 cup (48 g) icing sugar
 finely grated zest of 1 lemon
 1 tsp vanilla extract
 1 1/2 cups (333 g) all-purpose flour
 1/2 cup (78 g) potato or cornstarch
 1/2 tsp fine salt
 1/2 cup (75 ml) dried fruits, nuts or other additions

Makes 4-5 dozen cookies

1. Beat the butter and icing sugar by hand for at least 1 minute, until well blended and fluffy. Beat in the lemon zest and vanilla. Sift the flour, starch and salt together in a separate bowl and add all or some to combine. Stir in any additions. Shape the dough into two logs, about 1 1/2 inches (3.5 cm) across. Wrap and chill until firm, about 2 hours (or freeze and thaw in the fridge overnight before baking).
2. Preheat the oven to 325°F (160°C) and line two baking trays with parchment paper. Slice the cookies into 1/4-inch (6 mm) slices and arrange them on the baking trays, leaving 1 inch (2.5 cm) between them (they will not spread). Bake for 10 to 12 minutes, until they just begin to show signs of browning at the edges.
3. Let the cookies cool completely on the baking trays or cooling racks.

Who's ready for some holiday baking? 🎄🍪🍷❄️ Me, too! Let's kick things off with a favourite cookie recipe of mine: Icebox Meltaways. My grandmother used to make a similar style of cookie using candied cherries and walnuts, so these are a nod to her. A meltaway is a shortbread that snaps at first bite, but then melts away into buttery, sweet goodness. Because the cookie is so tender, choose additions with a similar texture. I used dried blueberries here, but you could use dried cherries, diced dried apricots, dried cranberries, diced candied ginger, diced candied orange peel, walnut or pecan pieces, pine nuts, pistachios or even mini chocolate chips.

The baked cookies keep for up to 5 days or can be frozen. You can also freeze the unbaked cookie dough rolls and thaw in the fridge overnight before slicing and baking.

The full recipe is right here. Let me know what additions you'll stir into your Icebox Meltaways!

Though she's often referred to as Canada's baking sweetheart, I think of chef Anna Olson as more of a fairy godmother – kind and reassuring, there to help you navigate through the most complex baking projects while making you feel like you did it all yourself.

Olson became a much-loved kitchen mentor back in 2002 as the host of Sugar, the then brand-new Food Network's first show dedicated to baking and desserts. While she still appears on the network's competition showdowns, her cheerful, calming kitchen presence and chocolate fountain
